The Full Purse

Once upon a time a chap named Fortunatus did a kind act for Jupiter, or Juno, or Bacchus, or some other of those ancient gods or goddesses. In return for this kindness Fortunatus was given a magic purse which was never empty. No matter how often he spent all the gold pieces in the purse, when he opened it the next time it was filled with gold again.

What a help such a purse would be in these times!

However, there IS a Fortunatus purse which every man can own, and which will pour forth gold according to the courage and skill and wisdom of each man.

The man who would win it must give to his present employment the best that is in him, and he must all the time prepare himself for something better. Just ahead of every man and every boy and every girl is some other individual who will one day be advanced, or drop cut of the race. This will make a vacancy which the best qualified person will fill.

Get ready to fill that vacancy, and when your chance comes, fill it BETTER than it was ever filled before.

When you feel that you are prepared for a better job, GO AFTER IT. Read the opportunities in the Want Columns of this newspaper every day. If you don't see there anything which fits your abilities, ADVERTISE in the Want Columns yourself. Tell the 150,000 readers of The Washington Herald what you can do and how well you can do it. There is a job somewhere just suited to the capability of every man, every boy, every woman, and every girl. Don't be satisfied with what you are doing now, if you believe you are WORTHY of something better.

And when you are ready, phone Main 3300 and I'll help you to LAND IT.

President Also Accepts Invitation to Review Parade of Veterans.

The sound of hammers used by carpenters at work on reviewing stands along Pennsylvania avenue brought to mind yesterday that in a little over two weeks Washington will be enter-taining 20,000 members of the G.

President Wilson formally accepted yesterday the invitation to be the speaker at the reception of veterans in Camp Matthew G. Emery, the old Census Office Building, Tuesday evening, September 28, and to review the parade the next morning.

Plans are being laid for a reception of veterans at the Pension Bureau. The interior of the court will be decorated to the court will be draped. with flags. The pillars will be draped with bunting, and the floor court will be given a foreign appear ance by the generous use of rubber plants and ferns. Pictures of Washington, McKinley, and Lincoln will be given prominence with those of Grant, Sherman, and Sheridan.

Tents will be pitched in the court to be used as headquarters for the Red Cross which will care for veterans who fall sick while in the building.
